

Missing Metrics

Health Zonal Offices collect data on a monthly basis, but many Health Areas do not report consistently, leading to unreliable metrics.

Health Areas are often unable to report their epidemiological data due to many factors that include poor transportation and communication infrastructure, as well as reliance on paper records. As can be seen from these graphs and maps, areas that are far away from their managing offices have a difficult time reporting consistently, with the most remote areas having the most difficult time of all. The LTFHC has been addressing these issues through its programming devoted to upstream, core health systems issues, including radio installation and the development of a medical record application.
